More than half the soldiers who were stationed at the Fort were foreign born. Their birthplaces are shown on the abstracted census. Shortly before Fort Graham was closed, the Post Surgeon, J. M. Steiner, killed Captain and Brevet Major R. A. Arnold, who had been the first commander of the Post, and who had returned to the Post for its closing. This event and other Post activities are documented on the Post Returns. 76 pages. Indexed. Abstracted by Karen Ladd Acker, 2008.		$15.00	$
FORT RENO, INDIAN TERRITORY POST RETURNS  August 1874 – December 1884 Fort Reno, first known as the camp near Cheyenne Agency, was established in 1874. After the Cheyenne uprising, Fort Reno was established by Lieut. Col. Thomas H. Neill in 1875 to protect the Darlington (Cheyenne – Arapaho) Agency. Officers and soldiers spent much of their time on escorting and patrolling duties. Records of events and official communications gave information on transfers, court-martials, deaths etc. By 1881 patrols were sent out on a regular basis to find &amp; arrest intruders found on Indian lands. Fort Reno is located near current day El Reno, Oklahoma. 350 pages. Surname index. Abstracted by Beth Wilson, 2008.		$45.00	$
GOOD AND BAD AS REPORTED IN "THE INDIAN CITIZEN", ATOKA COUNTY, OKLAHOMA  July 1890 – June 1891 Could your family have been in Atoka Co., Indian Territory in 1890? Atoka Co. was not included in the existing 1890 census for Oklahoma. These newspaper articles mention the names of the people living in or traveling through the Atoka area. Much of the news revolved around the comings and goings of the citizens and the arrests and court appearances of local outlaws. The frontier was a rough place and that is reflected in many of the items reported in The Indian Citizen. 232 pages. Indexed. Abstracted by Karen Ladd Acker, 2008.		$30.00	$
ABSTRACTS OF POST RETURNS FOR FORT SILL, INDIAN TERRITORY  (originally Camp Wichita) March 1869 – March 1875 These Returns document the activities of the officers and men at this early military Post on the eastern edge of the Wichita Mountains in Indian Territory. During this time period, Fort Sill was the station of the 10th Cavalry and the noted black troopers known as Buffalo Soldiers. The Record of Events on each Return relates battles fought, prisoners taken and hardships endured. 219 pages. Surname index. Abstracted by Karen Ladd Acker, 2007.		$30.00	$
